

Bob Wise is President of the Alliance for Excellent Education, a nonprofit organization that is a national leader in reforming the nation's high schools to ensure that all students, particularly those who have been traditionally underserved, graduate high school prepared to succeed in college and a career. After serving a combined twenty-four years as a governor, member of the U.S. House of Representatives, and state legislator from West Virginia, Gov. Wise joined the Alliance in 2005 and has led its advocacy for college and career ready standards, aligned systems that lead to students developing deeper learning competencies, new models for high school design/redesign such as Linked Learning, the effective use of technology, and effective systems of accountability and school improvement. Gov. Wise and the Alliance are known for their expertise on high schools as well as the ability to work effectively with federal and state policymakers, district and school leaders, civil rights groups and with national, state and local organizations committed to ensuring success for our nation's traditionally underserved students. Gov. Wise earned a bachelor's degree from Duke University and a juris doctorate degree from Tulane University School of Law.
